

When you recognize that a desire to eat is due to “head hunger” rather than true hunger, you can choose to do another activity to redirect your attention away from food until the urge passes—or until you feel hungry. Highlight the ideas that appeal to you and add some of your own. Remember, try to choose activities that are enjoyable, available, and preferably, eating incompatible. You’ll need both quick and involved activities. Create a “Distraction Kit” with everything you need and establish a pleasant Food Free Zone in your home or office that is perfect to retreat to in these moments.
